Constructivism is a philosophical viewpoint about the nature of knowledge. Therefore, it represents an epistemological stance. There are many flavors of constructivism, but one prominent theorist is Jean Piaget, who focused on how humans make meaning in relation to the interaction between their experiences and their ideas. He considered himself to be a genetic epistemologist, meaning he was ...

A regulatory mutation is one that occurs in the promoter or operator region of a gene or set of genes and affects the expression of the downstream genes without affecting the amino acid sequences ...

Which type of mutation affects the largest number of genes?

Evolution is change in the heritable characteristics of biological populations over successive generations. These characteristics are the expressions of genes that are passed on from parent to offspring during reproduction. Different characteristics tend to exist within any given population as a result of mutation, genetic recombination and other sources of genetic variation.
