In biological classification, taxonomic rank is the relative level of a group of organisms (a taxon) in a taxonomic hierarchy. Examples of taxonomic ranks are species, genus, family, order, class, phylum, kingdom, domain, etc. . A given rank subsumes under it less general categories, that is, more specific descriptions of life forms. Above it, each rank is classified within more general ...

Taxonomy - Ranks: The goal of classifying is to place an organism into an already existing group or to create a new group for it, based on its resemblances to and differences from known forms. To this end, a hierarchy of categories is recognized. For example, an ordinary flowering plant, on the basis of gross structure, is clearly one of the higher green plants—not a fungus, bacterium, or ...

Poriferans are commonly referred to as sponges. An early branching event in the history of animals separated the sponges from other metazoans. As one would expect based on their phylogenetic position, fossil sponges are among the oldest known animal fossils, dating from the Late Precambrian. Since then, sponges have been conspicuous members of many fossil communities; the number of described ...
