If V and W are finite-dimensional vector spaces and a basis is defined for each vector space, then every linear map from V to W can be represented by a matrix. This is useful because it allows concrete calculations. Matrices yield examples of linear maps: if A is a real $m \times n$ matrix, then $f(x) = Ax$ describes a linear map $\mathbb{R}^n \rightarrow \mathbb{R}^m$ (see Euclidean space).. Let $\{v_1, \dots, v_n\}$ be a basis for V .

This identity extends to complex-valued exponents. It can be shown that every continuous, nonzero solution of the functional equation $(x+y) = (x)(y)$ is an exponential function, $x \mapsto e^{ax}$, with $a > 0$. The fundamental multiplicative identity, along with the definition of the number e as $e = \lim_{n \rightarrow \infty} (1 + \frac{1}{n})^n$, shows that $e^x = \lim_{n \rightarrow \infty} (1 + \frac{x}{n})^n$ for positive integers n and relates the exponential function to the elementary notion of ...

Perhaps we, in the legal world, should not have been surprised by R v Mills, 2019 SCC 22, the most recent decision on privacy and the application of that concept in the section 8 Charter regime. When it comes to Supreme Court decisions, we tend to dispense with the facts in favour of the principles, but Mills reminds us, facts do still matter in our highest court.
